BIG CIRCUS MENAGERIE IS HIT BY FIRE

Flames Sweep Ringling's Tents at Showgrounds In Cleveland

AT LEAST FIFTY ANIMALS ARE LOST

Firemen, Police and Coast Guardsmen Aid In Restoring Order

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—Fire today swept the menagerie tent of the Ringling Brothers circus, destroying at least 50 wild and trained animals.

Terrified animals were burned alive in their cages before the eyes of 5,000 persons at the circus grounds on Cleveland's lakefront.

Other animals, including an elephant and several giraffes, tore loose from their manacles. Police used shotguns to destroy the giraffes.

The crowd watched the catastrophe with helpless fascination. Some of the animals raced at large, aflame. At one point when the fire was at its height, an ostrich with plumes blazing ran from the menagerie tent. The flames were patted out by circus employees and the bird was captured by trainers.

An eye-witness counted 30 carcasses lying amid the embers of the menagerie grounds and 20 others, their pelts charred, lying in their cages.

Loss Will Be High

At that time the fire was under control, although straw in the tent still was smoldering. No official estimate of the damage was immediately available, but the loss was believed to amount to tens of thousands of dollars.

The blaze apparently started on top of one of the animal cages and spread quickly through the rest of the menagerie.

All available squads of police were called to the scene to handle the 10,000 crowd of 5,000 persons which was drawn by the heavy smoke and blowing flames.

Eight camels tethered inside the tent were burned to death, and 10 other camels were led from the flames with their hair burned almost entirely from their backs.

A large elephant, terribly burned, was put out of pain by circus attendants, who fired eight revolver shots into the animal's brain.

Numerous monkeys, birds and dogs were among the other animals destroyed.

The gorilla Gargantua, one of the main attractions of the "great show on earth," was not harmed. There were scenes of indescribable animal agony. Lions, still alive, paced helplessly in their flaming cages, the hair burned off. A brace

School Board Will Seek Levy Renewal On November Ballot

Appointment of Two Elementary Teachers Approved; Two Resignations Received; Two Are Granted

Leaves of Absence

Salem voters will be asked to renew the school district's three-mill operating levy, for five years, at the November election.

Decision to resubmit the levy was made at a meeting of the board of education last night. The levy is not a new tax. It has been in existence for almost 20 years, school board members point out, and is an essential part of the school system's financial structure.

The levy now in effect—the same levy—will expire Dec. 31.

Resignations were announced and appointments were approved by the board.

Supt. Earl Kerr announced the appointment of two elementary teachers, Sara Reid of New Wilmington, Pa., Westminister graduate, and Elizabeth Willett of Sebring, Kent State student. The appointments were approved by the board.

Two Resign

Remember when street lights, and not the early morning sun, provided illumination for youngsters on their way to school late last winter? The situation was caused when the national moved its clocks ahead an hour in a program designed to aid the war effort.

Well, they may not have to do that this fall and winter. That's not a definite promise, mind you—it's just a plan, as yet, which Supt. Earl Kerr and other school officials are trying to work out. Supt. Kerr told the board of education about it last night and the board liked the idea.

Briefly, school would start at 9 a. m. under the new proposal, suspend at 12, resume at the usual afternoon hour but extend further into the afternoon to make up for the time lost early in the morning. The plan will be carried out if at all possible, Kerr says.

High school football coach and music teacher at Junior High school. Both are in industry at the present time.

Requests of John Paul Ollman, biology teacher, and Ted R. Keller, high school mechanical drawing teacher, for leaves of absence were granted. Ollman has been inducted into the army. Keller asks a leave because of ill health.

Reappointment of Dr. R. T. Holzbach as school physician for the coming term was approved.

The board of K. K. D. the appointment of Carl Bauman as acting school janitor at Columbus.

Award of diplomas to two members.

GAMBLER'S JUSTICE, MOTIVE IN KILLING

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Old-fashioned gamblers' justice—with revenge with bullets for a double-cross in dollars—was the motive given by a Broadway bookmaker who admittedly slew two former associates as they sat playing cards.

Not since the notorious Arnold Rothstein paid with his life 14 years ago, apparently for welching on a bet, has New York had such vengeance killing as that which yesterday left Robert B. Greene, 40, and Morris Walewski, 54, dead, and Max Fox, 48-year-old ex-convict, behind bars.

"They did me dirt," Fox was quoted by Assistant District Attorney Louis A. Pugnochiuso as saying in confessing he was the masked gunman who shot the pair in a midtown bridge club early Monday morning.

As Fox was booked on homicide charges, Pugnochiuso said the former bookmaker poured out a tale of how Greene and Walewski had reduced him from a big-time bookie to a virtually destitute gambler with an office "in my hat."

It was on $350,000 of election wagers in the 1940 presidential campaign that Fox claimed Greene and Walewski "double-crossed" him, without informing him and leaving him holding the bag.

Auto Victim Recovers
LISBON, Aug. 4.—Frank Morlan, carpenter, has been taken home from the Warren City hospital where he had been confined since Saturday because of injuries received in an automobile accident near Lordstown Saturday.

He was on his way home from Warren after working there for several days, when his machine was sideswiped by a large truck. He received bruises and shock but suffered no serious injury.

FDR STUDIES FINDINGS ON SEVEN NAZIS

Gives Virtually Entire Day To Careful Review of Recommendations

NO INDICATION OF WHEN HE'LL REPORT

Commission's Words Indicate Convictions Have Been Made

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt gave over virtually the entire day today to what an aide termed a "very careful review" of the findings and recommendations of the military commission which tried eight Nazis on charges of entering the United States for sabotage activities.

There was no indication that Mr. Roosevelt's decision on the recommendations of the commission would come today, inasmuch as he had a tall stack of documents to go through.

To provide ample time for this, he scheduled only a late afternoon press conference, a late meeting with Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, and an engagement earlier to bestow a congressional medal of honor on Lieutenant John B. Bukley, the torpedo boat expert who took General Douglas MacArthur and high Filipino officials to Australia.

The commission held a two-minute formal session yesterday then adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

There was immediate speculation this meant the commission would meet to sign death warrants for at least seven of the accused if the President approved the findings.

A conclusion that some, if not all, of the Nazis had been convicted, was the commission's statement "the commission announced that the findings and sentence will not be announced by it." The use of the word "sentence" definitely indicated there had been convictions.

Don't Cut Ragweed, Is Physician's Plea

Needed to Save and Repair Eroded Soils, Asserts Medical Editor

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—Hay fever folks: A doctor stuck out his chin in your direction today.

He said nice things about your perennial foe, the maligned ragweed, and frowned upon those civic weed-cutting programs that usually come about this time each year.

We need the weed to save and repair eroded soils, said Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal. In fact, he added, it is doing a "great service for our civilization."

The doctor asserted in an article that soil had been used over and over with too little thought or effort given to replacing vital minerals extracted with each crop. Until such an endeavor is accomplished, Forman said, "we must ask the persistent ragweed to keep on nagging down and refertilizing our misused soils even though some five per cent of our population must sneeze on its account for a month in the fall."

So don't cut the weed, he begged. Incidentally, the doctor said the ragweed is remotely related to "the aristocrats of the flowering plants."

How much consolation is that to a sneezer?

MOTIVE IS SOUGHT IN STUDENT DEATH

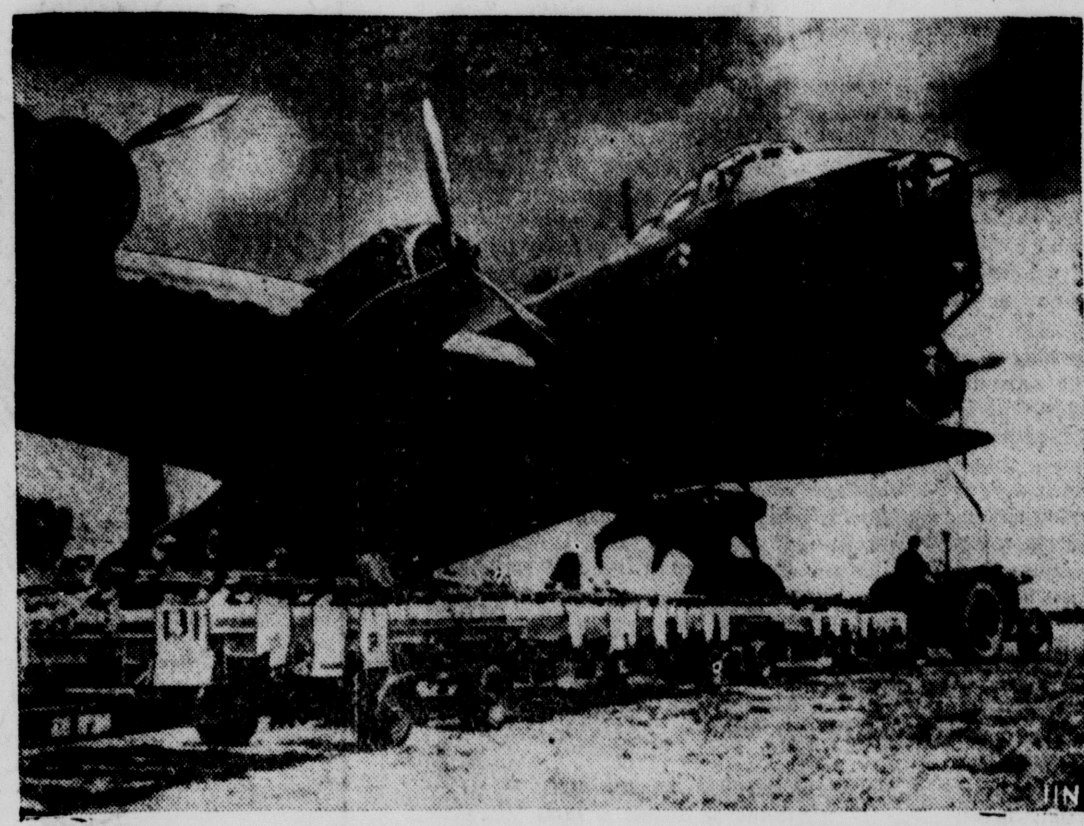

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4.—Investigators said today they were unable to determine a motive in the death of John R. Claypool, 22, of Toledo, O., high-ranking engineering student at the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Deputy Coroner Anthony Sapp reported that Claypool killed himself yesterday in his campus room. The student covered an artery in his left arm with a razor then hanged himself with a necktie on a dresser drawer knob, Sapp said.

Probe Plane Secrets
LONDON, Aug. 4.—The secrets of Germany's new Focke Wulf-190 fighter, one of Germany's most effective weapons on the western air front, now are in the possession of the British air ministry.

An FW-190 was brought down in Britain in good condition, it was announced today, despite German orders that these planes were not to venture across the English channel.

CALL LINDY IN PELLEY TRIAL

Defense Has Flier on Stand In Indianapolis Sedition Hearing

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—Charles A. Lindbergh made a brief appearance as a defense witness today in the sedition trial of William Dudley Pelley, testifying he had made no effort to learn of the public attitude toward the war since the United States entered the conflict.

"I have devoted my time and energy to doing what I can to help with the war effort," the noted aviator replied when Floyd G. Christian, defense attorney, asked what he had observed as to any change in public opinion about this nation's participation in the war.

"I have made no effort to learn of any change in the public attitude since the United States went to war."

Earlier, Lindbergh, who was active in the America First movement prior to America's entry into the war, had testified it was his impression that "the majority of the people of this country were opposed to going into war—that is, before we were attacked."

Lindbergh occupied the witness chair only fifteen minutes. He was not cross examined by the government.

After he left the stand the trial of the former silver shield leader and two associates, accused of interfering with the war effort by the publication of seditious statements, was adjourned until tomorrow because defense attorneys said they had no other witnesses immediately available.

MOORE IS TAKEN TO OHIO PRISON TODAY

LISBON, Aug. 4.—Richard Moore, 28, East Liverpool, sentenced yesterday in common pleas court here to serve the remainder of his life in the Ohio penitentiary for the murder of his father-in-law, Oscar Williams, in East Liverpool, on June 8, was taken this morning by Sheriff George Hayes to the state prison to begin his sentence.

Moore asked the permission of the court to make a statement before sentence was pronounced. He said that he was sorry for all that had happened. "I never intended for I liked him." After thanking the court for all of the consideration that had been shown him, Moore said that he was ready for sentence. His sister and brother were in court with him when sentence was passed.

Transfer Offices
CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—Col. Charles L. Hall announced that the division office of the U. S. Navy engineers would be transferred from Cincinnati, its home for nine years, to Columbus for closer coordination with the fifth service command, located at Fort Hayes.

The division office created here in 1933 is supervising perhaps a billion dollars' worth of construction.

The transfer will leave Cincinnati with the district engineer's office, headed by Col. E. P. Vandervoort.

The move, expected to take place in a month or six weeks, involves some 450 military and civilian employees.

Bomb Blasts Home
CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—A dynamite bomb exploded on the front porch of Michael Piro's home (1440 E. 120th st.) early today, knocking his wife unconscious and doing an estimated $300 worth of damage.

Piro, 33-year-old laborer, said he knows no reason for the dynamiting, which blew all the windows out of his house and shattered at least 10 other windows in the neighborhood.

Black's Father Dies
CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Alphus H. Black, 83, died last night. He was the father of Supt. Lynn Black of the Ohio Highway patrol.

Old Records Asked In Legion Campaign

Beginning tomorrow morning, members of the American Legion auxiliary here will canvass the city, by telephone, in search of old phonograph records.

The movement is part of a nation-wide program instituted a couple of weeks ago by the national American Legion organization, to help the men in the service.

The old records will yield valuable shellac. This is obtained by various processing companies, to which the old records are shipped. In return for the shellac, the companies send new records, to the men in the service.

The American Legion obtains no profit from the transaction. In addition to setting up a telephone call program, the auxiliary has established two "headquarters" calls—4751 and 6749—which donors who have records may call. The records will be collected sometime during the week.

TWO LABOR GROUPS TALK PEACE AGAIN

Friendly Overtures Made By Two Influential Leaders Of CIO; Next Step Up To AFL

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The nation's two great labor groups, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, were on the brink of a new peace movement here today.

Friendly overtures have been made by two influential leaders of the CIO, President Philip Murray and R. J. Thomas, head of the United Automobile Workers.

The next step, apparently, was up to William Green, president of the AFL, who was Chicago-bound to open a 10-day session of the federation's executive council.

Thomas already was here, attending a convention of CIO automobile, aircraft and agricultural implement workers, and Murray was expected early in the day.

Thus the stage was set for a renewal of the peace negotiations begun in 1937 and 1939, but broken off each time when the organizations found themselves still too far apart to agree.

Possibilities of a reconciliation were revived yesterday when it was disclosed that Murray had written Green, informing him that a CIO peace committee of three had been appointed. Murray suggested that the AFL leader appoint a similar group to discuss "possible establishment of organic unity between our organizations."

Thomas said he knew of nothing that would prevent his union from joining with the AFL in a united labor front if a working basis could be agreed upon. He said he was ready to support the "policies and leadership" of Murray.

Democrats Joe L. Smith, dean of the state delegation in the house, John Kee and Robert L. Ramsay were opposed for renomination. Republicans had contests in three of six districts.

Senator Joseph Rosier, appointed by Neely when the governor stepped out in January, 1941, was a candidate for the "short term" nomination, the period between November 3, general election day, and January 3, 1943. Phillip P. Gibson, Huntington attorney, was his opponent. Republicans ignored the office. Polls opened 7:30 a. m. (EWT) and close at 8:30 p. m.

Licenses On Sale
LISBON, Aug. 4.—Only 63 marriage licenses were issued in the county this year for the month of July as compared with 148 for the same month in 1941. The decline was laid to the law which now requires a clean bill of health from both parties before issuance of the license.

WILD RIDING COSSACKS TRY TO STEM FOE

Russians Falling Back To New Positions In Salsk Region

GERMAN TANKS HIT NEAR STALINGRAD

Troops of Various Other Nationalities Fighting With Nazis

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—Red army troops have fallen back to new positions in the Salsk region, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, "after repulsing fierce enemy attacks," a Russian communiqué said today.

The Salsk withdrawal came after wild-riding Cossacks, volunteering to try to stem the German drive, had ridden into the battle in an effort to save their villages.

Nazi Tanks Pounded
German advance forces featuring many tanks broke through the Russian defenses in the Kleitskaya area about 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad several days ago, but were promptly surrounded and now are cut off and under Soviet attack, said frontline dispatches from the big bend of the Don.

Soviet aviation moved in to pound the tanks and communications lines, said dispatches to Izvestia, government paper.

In the same sector the Russians threw back several attacks by Italian infantry supported by tanks and killed 2,000 enemy soldiers, said the Soviet mid-day communiqué.

Besides the Italians, Spaniards, Finns, Hungarians and Rumanians all now are listed as fighting beside the Germans on the southern front. (The Finns have denied having troops anywhere except on their own front in the north.)

Red Star dispatches reported Soviet counter-attacks in the Kleitskaya area drove the Germans from some positions and cut communications.

Desperate Stand
It was here in the Western Caucasus, about 50 miles south of Rostov, that the Russians were reported making a desperate stand to halt the German drive toward the oil tanks of Maikop in the foothills of the Caucasus mountains.

The Cossacks had been pictured as offering furious resistance to the Germans in the Salsk area. But Red Star disclosed that the defenders were in difficulty with a somewhat negative statement that they were "succeeding in some places to hold the enemy."

Thousands of retired Cossack fighters, former members of the first Soviet cavalry army under Marshal Semen Budenny, had volunteered to hold their beloved "quiet Don." Both Don and Kuban Cossacks were swinging into the battle.

Patrol Called In THREE COLLISIONS

Cars operated by John Corrinch, 18, of Bessemer, Pa., and Steve Brothers, 57, of Mineral Ridge, were involved in a minor collision at the junction of Routes 62 and 165 at 1:15 p. m. yesterday. Corrinch's automobile hit that driven by Brothers, who was traveling north on 62 at the time of the accident.

No one was injured in a minor accident on Route 170, one mile south of East Palestine, at 1:10 p. m. yesterday. The accident occurred when William Eiser of R. D. 1, East Palestine, made a left turn and his car hit the machine operated by Joseph Zimmerman of New Springfield, who was passing at the time.

A third two-car collision was reported by Charles Chevalier, 33, of Fort Wayne, Ind., who stated that his car was hit by that of an unidentified driver one mile north of Deerfield at 6:30 a. m. Monday. He charged the driver of the other vehicle with driving on the wrong side of the road. The other operator, however, left the scene of the accident shortly after the mishap.

WELLSVILLE NAMES NEW GRID TEACHER

WELLSVILLE, Aug. 4.—John "Monk" Montgomery, former Ohio university athletic star, was named football coach today at Wellsville High school succeeding John Jasper, now in the army.

THIS IS WAR, TOO

Back in the dear dead days beyond recall this would have been the height of the silly season—the time of year when things seemed to go haywire and common sense was at a premium. The phrase came from the newspaper practice of exploiting the insane interval by printing silly stories to cover up an embarrassing lack of news.

It would be unpatriotic to call what is happening now a silly season, because there can't be anything silly about anything so deadly as war. Nevertheless, an individual would need to be superbly insulated against shock to escape the impact of so many things that don't make sense. Each person these days is carrying a list of pet absurdities and grievances in his head. Choice items are always on the tip of his tongue. There is a mounting tide of sniping and criticism, manifest in the way congressmen are being put on the pan. As they point out in their own defense, they are no different, but they fail to understand that the cumulative effect of war is to make people want things to be different—better.

It is discouraging to discover that the hot glow of patriotic fervor started by the incident at Pearl Harbor has changed into ordinary perspiration. It is discouraging to learn that what everybody hoped would be inspired leadership is just the same fallible jobholders, with heavy new responsibilities added. And it is discouraging to be reminded in the midst of a great emergency that human nature hasn't lost any of its great capacity for bungling and cheating and losing touch with reality. Pearl Harbor didn't change the political trimmers, the Greedy Guses and the me-too boys a bit. In fact, all it did was to give them a chance to go to town.

But all this is war, too—along with heroism in the Coral Sea and Midway and master strategy and inspirational shots in the arm for the good of the national morale. This is the part of war that doesn't get written up in the history books. It is the part of the war that must be fought and won on the home front with patience instead of guns and understanding instead of bayonets.

The snipers and critics must be challenged to prove they are willing to stand up to some job where they can be criticized and sniped at too. The oh-my-God school of hand wringers and wallers must be put to work doing something constructive. The second guessers, the backseat drivers, the fumbler, the red tape winders, the mush-heads and all the thousand and one categories of pests that seem to be a drag on the war effort somehow must be fitted into the scheme of things and some usefulness squeezed out of them.

There never was a war in which things went right—not even in Germany, where war has been a national preoccupation for upward of 100 years. The bungling and middle-headedness that infuriate people are as much a part of war as the waste and the debt that comes afterward. They are part of the reality of belligerency, perhaps the most unpleasant part.

PLAYING GERMAN'S GAME

German ingenuity in the lethal arts reached its climax in the submarine campaign of World War I, most successful of all strokes of strategy. With a loss of about 200 raiders, the Germans sank at least 5,400 ships—more than 11,000,000 tons of desperately needed cargo capacity. To give special significance to that total, it happens to be about the same as the merchant tonnage of the United States when World War I started.

To be sure, when World War I ended Great Britain and the United States at enormous expense had developed a convoy system that made submarine raiding extremely hazardous. It was on the assumption that the same thing would happen again that this country has planned to build cargo ships fast enough to keep abreast of the submarine sinking rate while developing convoy protection in this war. But in this war, with Germany using better submarines and the United States trying to play all the oceans of the world, convoy protection is infinitely more difficult, perhaps impossible. There is a brutally suggestive resemblance between trying to build ships faster than they can be sunk and trying to build a house faster than it can be burned down. The United States, even though unwillingly, is playing Germany's game.

This is the background against which average taxpayers, knowing about the high cost of building ships for the Germans to sink, are viewing the proposal to hasten the coming of the day when a large part of the freight going from one continent to another will be carried by air. Probably the conjectures about air freight in circulation at the moment are overdrawn. But if the United States can afford to spend millions on ships for the Germans to send to the bottom of the Atlantic, certainly it can afford to spend a sizable sum on ships to fly in the air where submarines can't harm them.

Most encouraging new development in many a day is War Production Chief Nelson's seeming willingness to help Henry J. Kaiser, who says it can be done and backs up his promise with a record of accomplishment, do it. This is vastly more than a twiddle-dee-twiddle-dum controversy. It might very well be this country's successful rebuttal to Germany's greatest strategy—the submarine blockade that almost won World War I and might win World War II.

SUPER HOT SPOT

If there's anything more than hot air in the trial balloons about appointing an American general in advance to plan a second front, a super hot spot is being prepared for some hapless officer.

It may be imagined that British military men would like nothing better than a chance to prove that Dunkirk and Tobruk were unavoidable incidents, instead of demonstrations of inept planning.

It may be imagined that Britons as a whole, to the extent that it has reached their ears, would like to refute the American slander that there is anything second-rate about their fighting ability.

It may be imagined, also, that for these reasons an American generalissimo and his countrymen would move heaven and earth to give a good account of themselves, which is the only thing that matters.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, August 5

THIS may be a day of excellent opportunity for launching out in strange, new and important ventures, and there should be much encouragement for originality, ingenuity and unusual skill, all of which would prove of surprising fortune and enhance position and personal prestige. But such fair fortune may be beset by dangers of rash, impetuous and ill-considered moves or methods, to defeat and nullify best results. Cooperation may come from large organizations and influential personages if impulse to reckless behavior is suppressed.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid opportunity for launching out in new directions or inaugurating innovations of a highly original and constructive quality. This initiative and outstanding skill promise sufficient for not spectacular good fortune, but the entire accomplishment is subject to frustration and reversals by an indulgence in irascible, impetuous or rash conduct or ill-developed methods or techniques.

A child born on this day should be endowed with much creative ability and mentality for original thinking and artistic skills, but may be prone to rash, impetuous and erratic conduct.

First move of the late Dan Willard, on taking over the B. & O., was to re-lay the roadbed so that a traveler with a razor in the washroom didn't shave the man next to him.

WEEP NO MORE, MY LADY!

Matanuska Valley Farming Project Causes Controversy Among Government Officials

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

PALMER, Alaska. It is seven years now since 199 farm families, most of them from the relief rolls of Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, were brought by the United States government to new untouched wilderness of Matanuska homesteads in this then virtually valley.

And this year, despite protests, personalities, dissension and disappointments, Matanuska is producing vital vegetables, milk and meat for Alaska when the territory needs that produce more than at any time since the gold rush.

The question, "What are the facts about Matanuska?" is one most frequently asked in Alaska and one of the most difficult to answer.

You ask two or three hundred residents "What is the matter with Matanuska?" And you will get almost as many different answers.

You will hear successively: That most Matanuska valley colonists are loafers and wasters, unfit for farming or anything else. That the colonists never had a chance to get out from under government red tape along enough to grow anything.

That the Matanuska project never will return the government's original investment.

"Co-Op" Runs Creamery That the "co-op", which operates the creamery, restaurant and other stores in the colony, is inefficient and the root of the colony's evils.

That the farm purchase contracts are drawn to keep farmers staggering under impossible debt loads and to prevent them from willing their property to their children even if they do clear their debts.

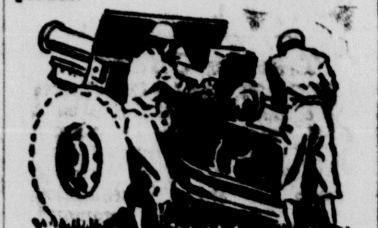

That "the best crop raised in Matanuska valley is kids."

You will, if you wait long enough, also hear some hardy soul admit he thinks the project is a success, the officials efficient and the farmers industrious.

Somewhere between these views, typical of the dissension which never has quit the valley even in its most productive year, lies the approximate truth.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 155-mm howitzer and its little brother, the 105-mm howitzer, are called "the two sweetest things of their kind in existence." The 155-mm gun will drop a 95-pound shell 12,000 yards away. The shell is lobbed high, and drops like a bomb giving it far greater authority when it explodes.

The 155-mm howitzers cost about $20,000 each. They are essential for our offensive army against the Axis powers and we need hundreds of them for they are a standard divisional gun and do twice as much damage as the old French-75 in World War I. You can help buy them for our army by your investment of at least ten percent of income in War Bonds every pay day.

U. S. Treasury Department

Of the original 199 colonists, perhaps 100 still are in the valley, although some no longer have any connection with the farming project.

When the colonists were brought up from the middle west, they signed contracts providing that the government-financed Alaska Rural Rehabilitation corporation would furnish each family with a 40-acre farm, help to clear it and build houses and barns, and finance the family until the farm could be put on a producing basis.

The valley they came to was a strange place to most of them—a forested flatland lying in a rough circle of 15 miles diameter, cut by two icy glacial rivers. The colonists were awed by the snowy semi-circle of Chugach and Talkeetna mountains around their new home.

Matanuska actually was a town at all, only a weatherbeaten railroad station.

The story of what happened in the succeeding months of 1935 and 1936 has become an Alaskan legend and has been retold outside the territory—with varying colorings.

Unlimited Credit Given

The indisputable facts are strange enough. Colonists lived in tents while paid workmen built their homes. A commissary was set up and proceeded to give almost unlimited credit for everything from ice cream cones to farm machinery.

Hundreds of milk cans were stored in the open before there was a cow in the valley. Carloads of hay were shipped from the states while there was hay already stored in valley barns, unsalable because of the scarcity of animals.

What the actual cost of those first wild months was to the government cannot be gauged with accuracy because of complicated accounting. But the lowest estimate anyone in the valley now will offer now is $3,000,000, and other estimates run twice that high.

Whatever the cost, the project was in operation in less than a year and Matanuska peas, potatoes and cabbage appeared on the market in Anchorage, closest city to the new project.

The real storm did not break until the rehabilitation corporation presented its bills for that first year's orgy of buying, plus the necessary expenses of establishing the farms.

Estimates had been made that each family would owe between $3,500 and $4,500, payable over a 30-year period. When the bills were added, the lowest was just under $4,000, the highest well above $12,000 and the average about half way between.

In the end, after outcries that could be heard in Washington, the government capitulated. Commisary and hospital bills were wiped out, and additional credit was given to the colonists.

However, no longer are the liberal terms or the outright gifts of 1935-36 available to would-be colonists. Today a newcomer must pay rent for a year and prove his intentions and ability before the rehabilitation corporation will sell him on anything like the original terms.

In any event, he must farm the land, belong to the co-op—the Matanuska Valley Co-Operating association—and sell through it and pay regularly on his indebtedness. He cannot simply hold the land as an investment.

Creamery Big Success

Of the cooperative projects planned for the valley, some have been outstanding successes and some flat failures. The creamery today is the largest single industry, with two plants, and it is prosperous. However, there is, in comparison, a cannery which is unsuccessful because Matanuska canned goods were unable to compete in price with those shipped from the states. Equipment such as an enormous pea trading machine now is a white elephant on the hands of the co-op.

The dual control in the valley makes for considerable dissension. The rehabilitation corporation, a division of the department of the interior, is operated by a government-appointed manager. This organization holds the loan contracts for the colony farms and mortgages on the farm equipment.

The co-op, with a capital loan from the farm security administration, now operates all the community projects, including everything from a machinery depot to a slaughter house. It buys all the farmers' produce for cash, sells to them from its store for cash. After dividing excess money through producers' pools, it has shown a steady operating profit for several years and last year paid off $5,000 of its FSA loan.

As to preventing this scourge or treating it after it has occurred, we are not so well-informed as the pollen grains can be collected, and dissolved in salt water.

Colonist on Trial Basis

A new colonist ordinarily must rent a corporation farm for a year at $25 to $35 a month. If at the end of that period he has satisfied the corporation directors of his ability and intent, he is allowed to begin purchase on a 30-year contract, receiving credit for about two-fifths of the first year's rental. He can buy without first renting if he has a substantial down payment.

All this is contingent just now upon the new family being able to get passage to Alaska in the face of wartime restrictions. The corporation does not pay transportation.

Whether the Matanuska project ever will return to the government its original investment, let alone interest, seems very doubtful to a casual investigator. But other factors make the picture less gloomy.

The experiment has opened up for farming a tremendously rich valley, has produced fresh vegetables and milk in quantity for a section of Alaska which never had them in quantity before. It has given homes to a number of indigent families and started some of them toward independence.

Most important of all, it is producing vital foods for wartime consumption in this isolated territory.

DOGS RUNNING LOOSE

Editor, The News:

Can't something be done about dogs running loose—destroying property, gardens, endangering lives of children and grownups?

They have been reported to the police who said nothing can be done because the owner of the dogs isn't known (two chow dogs).

What if the dogs haven't any owner, are they allowed to run? Surely something can be done.

MOST FOLKS ESCAPE HAY FEVER

Why Others Don't Still Mystery, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
FOR MOST of us the fifteenth of August is just another day. But for one out of ten of us, the poor hay fever victim, the date stands on the calendar and has been peering at him for weeks. It does seem pretty unfair and hard to explain in the cosmic scheme of things.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Sensitive to Pollens
It can hardly be called the sins of the fathers, because though it is undoubtedly hereditary, his father didn't commit a sin any more than he did.

The known facts about hay fever can be put down in a very small space. Some people have a sensitiveness of the mucous membranes of the eye, nose and throat to the pollens of certain plants, notably the weed known as ragweed.

The ragweed is one of the plants that spreads its pollen by the wind. It has no flower, in contrast to distinction to the plants that pollinate by insect distribution. The consequence for the poor hay fever sufferer is that about this time of year the ragweed throws out on the air a great shower of its golden pollen.

Now why I can breathe this into my nose and not notice it at all, and why when my wife gets even one pollen grain into her nose she begins to sneeze, I cannot explain. But these are the facts.

Causes Asthma
Hay fever in the early part of the season affects the eyes and nose most. Later on, many victims get asthma, which is a constriction of the muscles of the bronchial tubes. It affects only certain tissues of the body. It is easy to understand why it should affect the eyes and nose, when it is explained that the cause is the pollen grains in the air; they would naturally light on the surface of the body.

They are so small that they are completely invisible and the poor victim does not understand when the thing first hits him. Nor, confidentially, does the physician understand all. Why, for instance, do the pollens not enter the stomach and cause distress there?

As to preventing this scourge or treating it after it has occurred, we are not so well-informed as the pollen grains can be collected, and dissolved in salt water.

can be used as vaccines. Preferably the vaccine treatment should begin long before August fifteenth. The vaccines are given about twice a week. But even beginning treatment August fifteenth, they have often afforded much relief.

The various nasal sprays, especially those containing ephedrine or epinephrine, undoubtedly do temporary good.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. B.: What kind of a disease is scleroderma? What is the best treatment for it?

Answer: Scleroderma is a hardening of the skin of the hands and arms and sometimes of the face. The real cause is not known. The best treatment is by the application of heat and injections of vaccine.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Our national hysteria urged that one must not be otherwise, even if it hadn't. The crises passed, the rains came, the sun shined, the autumn soaked in half-dug trenches and as the days shortened and the Kenmore lamp-dusked again in the faces of the diplomats—Sir Somers and the Maharajah of Sikkim. This and the Maharajah of Sikkim, the successful novelist and the Wimbledon winner delegates to the conference, as well as the visiting Americans who were experiencing a post-supper fog because the sun had turned a November midday had turned over the roofs.

I went to a good many of these parties and, somehow, I don't remember exactly when, it became a thing that I should have been at all of them unless my name with Rainier called me elsewhere.

Often they did. Many days during that strange, almost somnambulant winter of 1938-1939 I sat in the Gallery of the House of Commons listening to dull debates and seeing Big Ben chime the quarters. I saw Rainier get up and push his way through the swing doors with that casualness which is among the specialties of House procedure—a form of self-removal which implies neither rudeness nor indifference to the speech in progress. Then he would dictate to a Committee Room, or over tea, or we might stroll along the equally empty Terrace, watching the last spears of sunset fade from the windows of St. Thomas's hospital or staring over the parapet at a train of coal barges on the way upstream. It was at such moments that I came to know him intimately, and to feel more his presence than from words. At the years he no longer talked, but he was still haunting; that he was still, as two women had said, searching for something and never at rest. Yet outwardly and there were few signs of it, the disfavor into which he had fallen as a result of his attitude towards official policy seemed to come rather as a release than as a suppression.

It was not that Rainier blamed the government for what had happened at Munich; such blame, he felt, when history assessed it, would be spread over many years in many personages, of which the year of 1938 were but last in a tragic line. He did, however, blame those who had stepped out of panic only to sink back into hypnosis. "These are the last days," he said to me once. "We are like people in a trance—even those of us who can see the danger ahead can do nothing to avert it—like the dream in which you drive a car towards a precipice and your foot is over the brake but you have no physical power to press down. We should be arming now, if we had sense—arming day and night and seven days of the week—for if the Munich pact had any value at all it was not as a promise of peace to come, but as a last-minute chance to prepare for the final struggle. And we are doing nothing—caught in the net of self-delusion and self-congratulation. We don't realize the skill and magnitude of the conspiracy—the attempt to reverse, by lightning strokes, the whole civilized verdict of two thousand years."

Such talk, during the winter of 1938-1939, was heresy in a country that permitted heresy, but could not regard it as in good taste. People began to remark, in advance of any argument about him, that they liked Rainier—this also was a bad sign in a society where likings are rarely expressed except by way of fair-minded prelude to disparagement. And one reflected that there had always been something against his chances of attaining high office—something expressed by his political enemies when they praised him as "brilliant," and by his political friends when they doubted if he were altogether "safe." Such doubts were now running high.

In the city, however, safety and brilliance were not held as incompatible by gatherings of grateful shareholders at annual meetings in the Rainier building. Here also it was my duty to accompany him, handing out appropriate documents and keeping his memory jogged against forgetfulness of such things as—"You will be glad to know that during the past year we have opened a model factory at West Bromwich where we are now manufacturing a model especially designed for the Colonies." He made such announcements with a solemnity in which only I, perhaps, detected any ironic note, similarly there seemed to me a touch of disdain in his bent for handling complicated masses of figures, a touch that did not detract from the enormous confidence reposed in him by investors. Nor was that confidence

Fighting Dutch Harbor Fires

This dramatic picture shows U. S. soldiers at Dutch Harbor battling flames started by the Jap air attack on the American outpost. The old station ship Northwestern was lost as result of direct hit. High explosives destroyed a few buildings and shacks and damaged a drydock. The United States followed up this attack by sinking a number of Japanese war vessels at Kiska and Attu in the Aleutian Islands.

ripe—like an apple out of an English orchard. No, we're not hated altogether by logic. It's more because the world is tired of us—bored with us—sickened by a taste that to some already seems over-sweet and hypocritical, to others sour and staid. I suppose the world grew tired of the Romans like that, till at last the barbarians more readily than the Caesars were forgiven for being tough. There come such moments in the lives of nations, as of persons, when they just can't do anything right, and the world turns on them with the awful ferocity of a first-night audience rejecting, not so much a play it doesn't want, as a playwright it doesn't want any more. . . . But wait till they've experienced the supplanters—if we are supplanted. A time may come when a cowed and brutalized world may look back on the period of English domination as one of the golden ages of history. . . .

I remember that afternoon particularly because as we were waiting for the traffic lights in Whitehall we saw Nixon at the curb vainly signaling a taxi and Rainier had the car stopped to offer him a lift. Bound for Victoria to catch a train, he chattered all the time during the short drive, finally and quite casually remarking: "Oh, you remember that fellow Ransome who took us to tea at his house in Broadway that day when his wife wasn't there?"

Rainier looked up sharply. "Rather sad business," Nixon continued. "She'd gone out to buy a cake, as Ransome thought—must have been hurrying back, because she was carrying it as she ran into the bus . . . killed instantly . . . poor chap was in a terrible state, so I heard. Only been married about a year."

We drove to the West End, while I searched the Telegraph for recital announcements. The only one I could find was of the first and only appearance in London of Casimir Novakova, who would give a mixed program of Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, and Ravel at the Selsdon hall. I had never heard of Novakova, and the fact that Rainier hadn't either, lent no optimism to my expectations. We found a photo-

No Gas, Mr. P. A.

When a man approached John Leigh, filling station attendant in Washington, and asked for a can of gasoline to get his car started (he had run out), Leigh politely refused, saying, "Can't do it. Regulations say gas has to be served in the car tank." The man, Leon Henderson, U. S. price administrator, told Leigh the regulations permitted it. But Leigh stood his ground. Henderson, who was responsible for the regulations, faxed to his office and later autographed a copy of the rules, sending it to Leigh.

From Colorful Salvaged Fabric

Every woman-who-sews can be a patriotic "Salvage Sally" to help conserve materials needed for victory. This stunning hat, belt and bag trio, quick to stitch up from Pattern C4070 by Anne Adams, can be made entirely of dressmaking remnants or fabric salvaged from outmoded or discarded clothes. The brim of the open-top hat is reinforced with a bit of crotchet and fastens at the back with adjustable bow-tie ends. The same bow-tie treatment is repeated at the belt and bag fastenings. These good-looking accessories will take just a short afternoon to finish up at home—or if you're a sewing beginner, go to your local sewing center for expert aid. Pattern C4070 comes in one size only. Watch this newspaper regularly for fabric-saving ideas by Anne Adams!

Send SIXTEEN CENTS for this Anne Adams Pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER. Send your order to The Salem News Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th st., New York, N. Y.

EXTEND HUNT FOR 12 MISSING IN BAY

STANDISH Mich., Aug. 4—Coast guardsmen and sheriff's officers conducted a virtually hopeless hunt today by land, sea and air for 12 persons missing since Sunday when a cruiser carrying a fishing party foundered in Saginaw bay.

The only known survivor, Mrs. Louis Repke, 23, of Bay City, who swam an estimated seven miles to safety, was recovering meanwhile from a horrifying experience to give the first account of the apparent tragedy.

Mrs. Repke told of having set out with her husband and a second woman in an attempt to swim to shore after the 30-foot craft, a converted tug, presumably struck a rock in mid-bay.

From about 3 p. m. until darkness, the three kept together. Then they became separated. After what she believed to have been hours, Mrs. Repke attained shore and struggled to an unoccupied hunting cabin, there to fall into an exhausted sleep.

Body Found In Bay

Speed Up Production

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—They came, they saw, and they got nearly $3,500,000 worth of business.

That amount in sub-contracts was let last month to visitors who appeared at the War Production Board's regional sub-contracting division here, WPB said today. The office has an exhibit of hundreds of sample parts that can be built by sub-contractors. This is viewed every day by an average of 75 men from Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, western Maryland and western Pennsylvania.

The aim is to speed the production of war goods by spreading the manufacture.

SCHOOL BOARD TO ASK LEVY RENEWAL

Three Mills, for Five Years, Up for Approval In November

bers of the 1942 senior class who completed their work this summer and thereby qualified for graduation was approved.

In compliance with the school foundation program law, school officials recommended a 180-day school term, and this the board approved.

Under these provisions, the 1942-1943 term will open on Thursday, Sept. 10, and close on Friday, June 11, 1943. The opening is later than usual. Supt. Kerr pointed out, inasmuch as the Labor day holiday occurs later than usual—on Monday, Sept. 7.

School Calendar

The following school calendar for the coming term was approved: Sept. 10 (Thursday)—Opening of schools.

Oct. 30 (Friday)—N. E. O. T. A. (holiday).

Nov. 26-27 (Thursday-Friday)—Thanksgiving recess (holiday).

Dec. 19 (Saturday)—Christmas recess begins.

Jan. 3 (Sunday)—Christmas recess ends.

Jan. 29 (Friday)—First semester ends.

Feb. 1 (Monday)—Second semester begins.

Feb. 22 (Monday)—Washington's birthday (holiday).

April 10 (Saturday)—Spring recess begins.

April 18 (Sunday)—Spring recess ends.

June 10 (Thursday)—High school commencement.

June 11 (Friday)—Close of schools.

The board approved a number of textbook purchases and, at the close of their session, toured the High school property with a view of determining essential improvements prior to the reopening of school.

FOUR MORE CARGO VESSELS ARE SUNK

Pioneer Sub Builder Fears U-Boats Have Not Hit In Full Yet

The four vessels announced yesterday as sunk were a British and a Norwegian merchantman and two small American craft—one a tug, the other a trawler.

Two men were killed and 40 saved in the torpedoing of the British ship in the South Atlantic 300 miles from shore May 28. The tug riddled the lifeboats with machine gun fire as the seamen tried to lower them.

Thirteen of 24 crewmen aboard the Norwegian ship perished when their craft was torpedoed in the Gulf of Mexico July 19.

The American tug was sunk more than two weeks ago off the east coast, presumably by a mine, with two men missing and 15, including a mess girl, rescued.

The trawler's casualty list included five killed and seven wounded in a North Atlantic attack in which five other crewmen escaped unscathed as a sub shelled their craft.

URGES COMPULSORY CIVILIAN DEFENSE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—To be effective, civilian defense must be compulsory to some extent, says a Canadian official here for a civilian defense seminar.

Marcel Gaboury of Montreal, director of air raid precautions and chief of provincial police for Quebec, told the seminar yesterday: "I see no reason why a defense volunteer, after receiving valuable training, should be any freer to leave his corps than a soldier would be. Home protection is the business of everyone, and without it air raid damage on this continent would seriously hold up our efforts on other fronts."

Ralph H. Stone of Conneaut, acting director of the Ohio State Defense council, commented that defense could not be made compulsory in Ohio without military law "because the people won't stand for it." "It wouldn't be constitutional to force people into civilian defense," Stone said. "We're coming along all right in Ohio. What we need is more education of the public. Defense leaders should get around and make more speeches," Stone concluded.

Not So Sweet

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—Children's mouths water today as they read that Municipal Judge Lillian M. Westropp had ordered the destruction of 35 barrels of candy found at Max Gluck's candy company here.

The children were less enthusiastic, however, when they learned that city chemists testified that analysis of the candy revealed it contained strands of hair, pieces of paper and wood.

Gluck, 65-year-old owner of the company, was found guilty yesterday of possessing adulterated candy for sale, and was fined $200 and sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse.

Forms Women's Unit

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—City Policewoman Miss Mary Milson has been assigned to organize a women's protection service at the Ravenna arsenal for the Atlas Powder Co.

Licenses Decrease

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—The new 1942-43 hunting licenses, good from Sept. 1 until the same date next year, are now on sale at the regular dealers.

Here and There -- About Town

Enters Officers Training School Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pfeiffer of E. State st., today announced receipt of word that their son, George, who has been stationed with the United States Army in Honolulu since last December, has arrived safely in San Francisco.

Pfeiffer's selection for officers training school occasioned his transfer back to the United States. The Salem boy, who has been in the service for a year and five months, has been a sergeant for a number of months.

Hospital Notes

Earl Ellsworth Snyder of Columbus has entered Salem City hospital for medical treatment.

Mrs. Harley McDevitt of Lisbon has entered for medical treatment, and Dona Foster of East Palestine for surgical treatment.

Leaves For Training

Ralph Poppa, 241 W. Tenth st., who enlisted in the U. S. Navy, left last Thursday for the Great Lakes Naval training station in Illinois. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Poppa of Howard ave.

Building Permit

A building permit was issued yesterday to Stanko and Saula of 386 Hogan's Place for a roof and chimney repair job to cost $250.

Recent Births

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Vignon of Washingtonville are the parents of a daughter, born this morning at the Central Clinic hospital.

FOUR MORE STATES VOTE IN PRIMARIES

Four states joined the August primary parade today (Tuesday) with voters selecting party candidates for a total of 37 congressional seats.

The year's biggest primary north in which 16 states designate nominees for state and federal offices, turned today's political spotlight on Kansas, Missouri, Virginia, and West Virginia where the chief issues were labor and pre-war foreign policy.

In Kansas, U. S. Senator Clyde Reed, who opposed the closed shop on defense construction projects, sought the Republican nomination for governor. His opponents were Lieut. Gov. Carl Friend, Andrew Schoepel, former corporation commission head, and State Senator Thale P. Skogard, foe of the federal farm program.

Seeking renomination for a fifth term, U. S. Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, was opposed by John Allison and C. C. Isley. The Democratic nomination for the senatorial seat was sought by former Senator George McGill, former Representative Randolph Carpenter and W. G. Clugston, Topeka newspaperman.

The bitterest contest on the day's calendar was in Virginia where Emmett O. Davison, former Alexandria mayor and secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists (AFL), opposed renomination of Representative Howard W. Smith, Democrat.

In Missouri, primary voters select 13 U. S. representatives, 18 state senators and 150 state representatives.

The West Virginia primary candidates were contending for one U. S. senatorial office and six representatives' seats.

News Briefs

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Queen Elizabeth was 42 years old today but the usual trappings of royal birthdays again were omitted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Ernest Kanzer, War Production Board regional director at Detroit, will be called to Washington to become deputy chairman of WPB in charge of progress reporting, it was learned today.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Attempting to ease the threat of a winter fuel oil famine in the east, the Office of Petroleum Coordination has requested 5,000 additional tank cars for the Atlantic coast area and directed oil companies to make "substantial and immediate" increases in overland shipments.

SPIRITED CONTEST FOR COURT JOB SEEN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—A spirited contest for the supreme court seat vacated through the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman stacked up within the Republican party today.

The party's state organization endorsed Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell of Cincinnati yesterday, and immediately Clinton D. Boyd of Middletown announced he, too, would be a candidate.

The party's endorsement was made over the vigorous protests of Boyd, who insisted the field should be left open.

Boyd, who lost to Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield Democrat, has sought four times to gain the supreme court bench.

Bell, who declined comment, is the brother of Samuel Bell, presiding judge of the Cincinnati Municipal court for 25 years until his death early this year.

Meanwhile, Gov. John W. Bricker said he would not appoint anyone to fill the vacancy until the November election.

Recall City Workers

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—The city called 95 firemen and 95 policemen back to duty today as the council approved a $280,000 bond refunding program to relieve a financial crisis. The employees were among 141 firemen and 111 policemen furloughed July 1 because of lack of money.

NAVY'S CHAPLAINS ARE FIGHTING MEN

Ministers Well Respected By Sailors Aboard Battlewagons

NORFOLK, Va.—"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition! I got one of the so-and-sos."

That line, shouted by a fighting Navy chaplain at Pearl Harbor, should go down in American history with Lawrence's "Don't give up the ship" and John Paul Jones' "I've no yet begun to fight."

Navy chaplains are no meek psalm-singers, but real men—men whom sailors respect. They have their battle station aboard ship with all the rest. Usually it is with the injured, but they are given basic training in the use of weapons and stand to a machine gun in a pinch.

It is not as fighting men, however, that Navy chaplains have really won the esteem and confidence of the men of Uncle Sam's fleet. It is because they understand the problems of homesick boys and of men who walk daily under the cloud of danger.

Here, under some trees on the grounds of the vast Norfolk Naval Operating base, is a small frame building with a church-like air—the Chaplains' school.

A guest speaker was talking to the class as I arrived to visit Chaplain C. A. Neyman, head of the school, a Baptist minister who has served the Navy 24 years. The speaker was a prominent psychologist and theologian from "up north."

"I hope you can get away from the theology that I was taught," he was saying—"and translate a cold intellectual system into profound flesh and blood experiences."

A serious, spectacled man in his 30's raised his hand.

"Do you think we should use the Scriptures?" he asked.

"Yes, certainly," the speaker replied, "but you use of the Scriptures and of prayer should be determined by what the man needs."

Stranger though he was, this lecturer had hit on the principle to which the Navy educates its budding chaplains—to make religion fit the Navy and its men.

Minister Needs Training

"Even a minister of years' experience has to undergo a revamping of thinking before he can be a successful Navy chaplain," Chaplain Neyman told me. "In civilian life he would be dealing with both men and women of varying levels of society. In the Navy he is dealing with only one kind of person—fighting men, men whose lives may be hard and perilous and who have learned to evaluate things quickly and realistically."

"They look at religion that way. Religion has to hit them and their life. Navy chaplains can't use the 'shotgun' type of sermon, the kind that touches every member of a civilian congregation somehow or other. Navy sermons have to be 'rifle' sermons. They have to aim at the bull's-eye."

The Navy sets a high standard for the men it assigns to bring religious counsel to that boy of yours aboard a fighting ship. A man who just "gets a call" to be a Navy chaplain won't make it unless he is an ordained minister with an A.B. or B.S. college degree plus seminary training and two years' experience. On top of this, he must be recommended by officials of his church as a man of the right temperament and abilities.

Sea duty is divided between Roman Catholic and Protestant chaplains, who visit each other's ships whenever possible so that men of both faiths have an opportunity to attend their own services. There are relatively few Jewish men in the Navy—about the same proportion as in the population at large—so there are no Jewish chaplains aboard. There are several, however, at land bases.

Careful selection of candidates and the drafting of a program intelligently aimed at meeting Navy men's needs have raised the chaplain enormously in the eyes of officers and men, Chaplain Neyman said.

"When I went into the service," he recalled, "a chaplain reporting duty was met with an attitude of 'what are you here? what are we going to do with you?' Now it's 'Thank heaven, you're here at last.'"

Nazis Drop Bombs

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Two English towns were damaged by bombs in daylight Nazi raids today but a blistering anti-aircraft barrage saved another on the south coast from raiders on a morning sweep across the channel.

Stop Awhile-- And Smile

IT'S NOT THE HEAT

IT'S THE ATTITUDE
TULSA, Okla.—Studying from a psychological standpoint, the best approach to a customer in hot weather is a Tulsa merchandising firm suggested its sales girls:

"Tell the customer, if the subject must be mentioned, that the heat isn't bad at all; tell him that he will feel much cooler by adopting a cheerful attitude. For after all the discomfort from heat is mostly in the mind."

"That may be so," said one of the sales girls, "but my mind sure doesn't perspire like the rest of me does."

HE'D BE THE ENVY

OF VON RIBBENTROP

SEATTLE—Police arrested a 52-year-old man for investigation. He was wearing an army uniform with technical sergeant's chevrons and nine hash marks. On his coat lapels were the insignia of a cavalry regiment, on his left shoulder and cap were the insignia of the Alaska Defense Command. In addition to the Victory medal of the first World War, he wore a British-American war relief emblem, Eagles' pin, service pin designating one year in the service, an enameled American flag set with bits of colored glass and a second-class Boy Scout badge pinned upside down. He carried a nickel-plated badge engraved with his name and the words "Mineralogy, Geology, U. S. Army, National Defense."

The national defense detail and military police joined the inquiry.

HE AIMS TO CASHIER TWO EX-CORPORALS
FINDLAY—Mussolini, Hitler and I came out of the last war as corporals, but I'm going to do all I can to see that they are demoted," said Louis J. Penberg, automobile dealer, as he turned in 13,695 pounds of scrap rubber to an oil company here.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

FROM LADY JANE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—It was one of those things which just couldn't happen—but did. Ann Yates, 8-year-old daughter of Tom Yates, a Chattanooga stock breeder, had been promised a horse to raise and train as her very own. The next foal of Lady Jane, a brood mare, was to be hers. Lady Jane's foaling time and Ann's birthday were approaching—so Ann thought it would be wonderful if the colt were born on her birthday. Her parents conceded it was possible though not probable. Ann went down to the pasture and took it up with Lady Jane. Then she included the request in her prayers. The day came. Ann was eight and sure enough, Lady Jane's foal was born that morning. The colt's name? Happy Birthday, of course.

A GOOD TRICK

IF YOU CAN DO IT

PUEBLO, Colo.—An elderly woman was telling police about the gunman who had held her up. "He was armed with three guns," she said excitedly. "He held one in each hand."

Would Aid Taxpayer
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Revision of the new $6,271,000,000 additional revenue bill to permit taxpayers to take $400 credits for the support of children attending college and to make deductions for extraordinary expenses caused by illness was proposed today by Senator Brown (D-Mich.).

Brown told the reporters he favored extending to individuals the proposed post-war tax rebate which under present plans would apply only to corporations. Several other members have favored such partial rebates.

MENAGERIE FIRE EXACTS BIG TOLL

Flames Sweep Ringling's Tents at Showgrounds In Cleveland

Bengal tigers were similarly trapped.

Zebras Create Panic

A number of zebras created a near-panic among the thousands of spectators when they broke loose from their halters and galloped onto the nearby New York Central railroad tracks before they were rounded up.

U. S. coast guardsmen, armed with rifles, and a city detective, Lloyd Trunk, shot some of the agitated animals as quickly as the circus veterinary indicated their cases were hopeless.

Girl performers in the circus joined tolling men in beating down the flames and doing what they could to quiet the animals.

Girls stepped into several of the bucket brigades formed by members of the circus' own fire-fighting force.

Police rushed seven ambulances to the scene, and Cleveland firemen took fire pumps and a rescue squad to the fire. The crew of a water pumping station, just across Lakeside ave., joined in fighting the flames.

It was the second major disaster to befall the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus in two years. Last season many of the show's elephants were poisoned.

Fortunately, the fire was confined principally to the menagerie. The famed big top itself escaped. The circus opened here yesterday for a four-day stand.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Garfield 4-leaf Clover

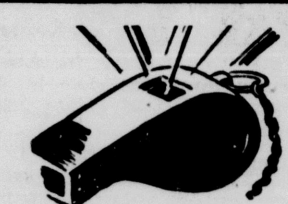

Articles of sewing will be judged at the next meeting of the Garfield Four Leaf Clover 4-H girls. The event will be held with Carol Johnson Aug. 13, with the mothers as guests.

The mothers will be the judges of the garments made which must be finished by Aug. 13.

A discussion on placing the exhibit at the fair was held at the fifth meeting with Esther Hoffman and a demonstration of French seams was presented by Mary Batzli.

Games were enjoyed and lunch was served by the hostess.
